

UL/AUL/KUL

Pressure relief dampers are designed for use in intake and discharge openings in air conditioning systems. When the system is in operation, the blades of the damper are held in the open position by the air flow. If the system is switched off, the blades close automatically, thus giving protection against the ingress of rain or leaves and birds into the air conditioning system.